I. PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

S. 709, the Federal Agency Performance Act of 2023, provides additional transparency, accountability, and priorities for the federal government in order to improve the performance and program outcomes of federal agencies.¹ This bill builds on the foundation set by the Government Performance and Results Act Modernization Act of 2010, or “GPRAMA,” by requiring regular strategic reviews of each agency’s performance goals and increasing the amount and quality of data posted on Performance.gov, which is the federal government's central website to track both agency-specific and government-wide performance.² Additionally, the bill updates several other portions of GPRAMA to address recommendations by the Government Accountability Office (GAO). These recommendations include requiring two or more government officials be designated as federal government priority goal leaders, improving capacity and expertise for agency Performance Improvement Officers, and ensuring agency performance goals are supported by evidence-building activities.

II. BACKGROUND AND THE NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Since 2011, GAO has routinely found that both agency and government-wide implementation of GPRAMA requirements have been somewhat successful.³ However, there are still longstanding challenges in effective execution of federal performance priorities.⁴ The changes the bill makes are based on outstanding GAO recommendations that would improve Office of Management and Budget (OMB) oversight of agency performance planning and execution and increase transparency and accountability for agency performance goals.⁵

OMB has administratively created and implemented strategic reviews of agency performance plans to improve the implementation of GPRAMA.⁶ This bill codifies the requirements of the strategic reviews and provides additional direction on how agencies develop, execute, and continuously evaluate the performance goals of the Administration. The bill also makes necessary changes to GPRAMA to ensure that there is greater involvement and support by necessary political and career officials to drive agency performance outcomes.

III. LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

Chairman Gary Peters (D-MI) introduced S. 709, the Federal Agency Performance Act of 2023, on March 8, 2023, with Senator Mike Braun (R-IN). The bill was referred to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs.

The Committee considered S. 709 at a business meeting on March 29, 2023. At the business meeting, Senator Paul offered an amendment to require the Comptroller General to review the requirements of the Act within 18 months and report his findings to Congress. The Paul amendment, as modified, was adopted by unanimous consent. Senators present for the vote were Peters, Hassan, Sinema, Rosen, Padilla, Ossoff, Blumenthal, Paul, Lankford, Romney, Scott, and Hawley. S. 709, as amended, was ordered reported

IV. SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE BILL, AS REPORTED

Section 1. Short title

This section cites the short title of the bill as the “Federal Agency Performance Act of 2023.”

Sec. 2. Establishment of strategic reviews and reporting

Subsection (a) codifies the strategic review process that has been used by OMB to ensure routine assessments and, where necessary, corrections to agency activities in support of achieving their performance goals. The section also requires that the appropriate senior officials in each agency are responsible for supporting the agency’s priority goals.

Subsection (b) requires a summary of findings of the agency review.

Sec. 3. Revisions to the federal performance website

This section makes sure that the Performance.gov website complies with federal mandates for all .gov websites. This section also requires the preservation of required performance-related information from previous Administrations.

Sec. 4. Federal government priority goals

This section makes technical changes to 31 U.S.C. § 1120 to ensure that all federal government priority goals are tied explicitly to the President’s Budget and have milestones that can be achieved within a single Presidential term.

Sec. 5. Federal government priority goal co-leaders

This section requires that, for every government-wide priority goal, as appropriate, that there be at least one official from the Executive Office of the President and at least one official from an agency that serve as co-leaders.

Sec. 6. Establishment of Deputy Performance Improvement Officers

This section requires the head of each agency to appoint a Performance Improvement Officer (PIO). The section also requires the appointment of a Deputy PIO if the PIO is not a career employee and that the Deputy PIO be a career employee.

Sec. 7. Repeal of outdated pilot projects

This section repeals two outdated pilot projects for performance goals and performance budgeting that are no longer authorized.

Sec. 8. Clarifying amendments

This section makes clarifying amendments to ensure stronger integration between strategic plans and requirements for agency evidence-building activities and makes a technical change to clean up a typographical error in GPRAMA.

Sec. 9. GAO report

This section requires the Comptroller General to report to Congress within 18 months on the effectiveness of the changes made by the Act.

V. EVALUATION OF REGULATORY IMPACT

Pursuant to the requirements of paragraph 11(b) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee has considered the regulatory impact of this bill and determined that the bill will have no regulatory impact within the meaning of the rules. The Committee agrees with the Congressional Budget Office's statement that the bill contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

VI. CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE COST ESTIMATE

S. 709 would require the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) to issue guidance to agencies for reviewing and following strategic plans and meeting performance goals. The bill also would increase the amount of performance data that is publicly available and would require every agency to hire a deputy performance improvement officer. Finally, S. 709 would require the Government Accountability Office to report on progress toward meeting the bill's requirements.

The GPRA Modernization Act of 2010 directs (GPRA stands for the Government Performance and Results Act) federal agencies to set goals, measure results, and report their progress in achieving those goals. Using information from OMB and selected agencies, CBO anticipates that most of the bill's provisions would codify current policies and practices under the GPRA. However, CBO expects that some of the 24 agencies covered by the Chief Financial Officers Act of 1990 would need to add deputy performance improvement officers, which would increase administrative costs. CBO estimates that the cost would be about $7 million in 2024 and would grow each year because of inflation totaling $38 million over the 2023–2028 period; any spending would be subject to the availability of appropriated funds.

S. 709 would affect direct spending by some agencies that are allowed to use fees, receipts from the sale of goods, and other collections to cover operating costs. CBO estimates that any net changes in direct spending by those agencies would be negligible because most of them can adjust amounts collected to reflect changes in operating costs.

The costs of the legislation, detailed in Table 1, fall within budget function 800 (general government).
