BIOGRAPHY

Congressman FLOYD DAVIDSON SPENCE, 73, the Dean of the South Carolina delegation in the U.S. House of Representatives, died on Thursday, August 16, 2001, at Saint Dominic-Jackson Memorial Hospital, in Jackson, Mississippi. His death was due to complications following the removal of a subdural hematoma on August 9, 2001, while he was being treated for Ramsay Hunt Syndrome. Serving in his 16th term in the House, Congressman SPENCE was the chairman emeritus of the House Committee on Armed Services and the chairman of the Subcommittee on Military Procurement.

Congressman SPENCE was born in Columbia, South Carolina, on April 9, 1928, the son of James Wilson Spence and Addie Jane Lucas Spence. He was married to the late Lula Hancock Drake Spence, of Drake, South Carolina, for 25 years. On July 3, 1988, he married the former Deborah Ellen Williams, of Lexington, South Carolina.

Congressman SPENCE graduated from Lexington High School, where he achieved "All-State" honors in football and participated in the 1947 Shrine Bowl game. In 1987, he was inducted into the Lexington County High School Athletic Hall of Fame.

Congressman SPENCE attended the University of South Carolina on an athletic scholarship, and he received the degree of bachelor of arts in english in 1952. He was elected president of the student body, president of the South Carolina Association of Student Governments, junior class president, and was a member of the student council. He was also named to the dean's list, the honor council, and the honor board. He was initiated into Kappa Alpha Order (social fraternity), Omicron Delta Kappa (honorary leadership fraternity), and Kappa Sigma Kappa (honorary service fraternity). He was selected as an "Outstanding Senior," and he was the recipient of the Algernon-Sydney Sullivan Award (as the outstanding male student for 1952), as well as listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He was a member of the Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA) Cabinet, the German Club, and the Compass and Chart Society. An accomplished athlete, he played football and basketball, and was the captain of the varsity track team, of which he was a member of the record-setting mile relay team.

Congressman SPENCE enlisted as a recruit in the U.S. Naval Reserve when in high school, and, as an undergraduate, he was a battalion subcommander of the U.S. Navy ROTC unit at the University of South Carolina. He was commissioned as an ensign upon graduation from college, and entered active duty during the Korean war. He served on the USS Carter Hall (LSD-3) from 1952 to 1953 and the USS LSM-397 from 1953 to 1954. Later in his military career, he was the commanding officer of a Naval Reserve surface division and the group commander of all Naval Reserve units in Columbia, South Carolina. He was a graduate of the Defense Strategy Seminar of the National War College and of the National Security Seminar of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. In 1988, he retired as a captain in the U.S. Naval Reserve. Additionally, he was a former member of the Board of Visitors of the U.S. Naval Academy.

In 1956, Congressman SPENCE received the degree of bachelor of laws from the University of South Carolina School of Law, which was replaced with the degree of juris doctor in 1970. While in law school, he was elected editor of the South Carolina Law Quarterly, chief justice of the Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, vice president of the Law Federation, and was a member of the Law Federation Cabinet. Upon graduation in 1956, he began the practice of law as a partner in the firm of Callison and Spence, in West Columbia, South Carolina, where he practiced until becoming a Member of Congress in 1971. He was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States, and he was a former member of the American Bar Association, the South Carolina Bar, and the Lexington County Bar Association.

FLOYD SPENCE began his political career in 1956, as a Democrat in the South Carolina House of Representatives. In 1962, he helped pioneer the development of the two-party system in South Carolina by becoming the first member of the General Assembly to switch to the Republican Party. In 1966 he was elected as a Republican, to the South Carolina Senate. He served as the Senate Minority Leader and as the chairman of the Joint Senate-House Internal Security Committee.

In 1970, FLOYD SPENCE was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives. Throughout his service in the House, Congressman SPENCE maintained one of the highest voting attendance records, while consistently supporting a strong national defense and fiscal integrity. Congressman SPENCE was recognized around the world as an authority on defense issues. From January 1995 to January 2001, Congressman SPENCE was the chairman of the House Committee on National Security, which, during his chairmanship, returned to its former name of the Committee on Armed Services. For 13 years, he was the ranking member of the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct (Ethics Committee). He was selected by his colleagues to serve as a member of the Republican Committee on Committees for a number of years, and he was also elected to serve as the representative for the Tidewater Region on the Republican Policy Committee for the 104th through 107th Congresses.

Congressman SPENCE was a member of Saint Peter's Lutheran Church, in Lexington, South Carolina, where he served on the Church Council and as a Sunday School teacher. He was also a member of the Advisory Board of the Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary, in Columbia, South Carolina.

An active supporter of the Boy Scouts of America, Congressman SPENCE served as a scoutmaster, a council executive board member, a council advisory board member, and a district chairman. He was also the recipient of the Silver Beaver Award.

Congressman SPENCE was a charter member of the University of South Carolina Association of Lettermen, as well as a former vice president for the Eleventh Circuit and Councilor-at-Large of the University of South Carolina Alumni Association. He was also a former member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Congressman SPENCE was named in Who's Who in America, Who's Who in the South and Southwest, and Who's Who in American Politics. In 1978, he was awarded the Order of the Palmetto, South Carolina's highest honor, by Governor James B. Edwards. He was a former commander of the Wade Hampton Camp of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, as well as a member of numerous civic, fraternal, and military organizations.

Congressman SPENCE received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from The Citadel on May 13, 1995. He received the honorary degree of doctor of public service from the University of South Carolina on August 12, 1995. On September 3, 1996, the Floyd Spence Wing of the Lexington Medical Center Extended Care Facility was dedicated in his honor. On November 4, 1996, the Congressman Floyd D. Spence U.S. Army Reserve Center was dedicated in his honor at Fort Jackson, South Carolina. The Spence Center for Composites Technology, in West Columbia, South Carolina, was named in honor of Congressman SPENCE on May 22, 1999.

Congressman SPENCE was the recipient of a successful double lung transplant on May 6, 1988, and a successful kidney transplant on May 26, 2000. He actively supported organ donor awareness programs.

He is survived by his wife, Deborah Williams Spence, of Lake Murray; four sons from his first marriage: Floyd Davidson "David" Spence, Jr., Zachariah William "Zack" Spence, Benjamin Dudley "Ben" Spence, and Caldwell Drake Spence, all of Lake Murray; brothers and sisters: Allan Johnson Spence, Sr. and Anna "Ann" Spence Clement, both of Lake Murray, Robert O. "Buck" Stevenson of Ballentine, Juanita Stevenson Smith of West Columbia, and Johnny Spence of Lexington; and nine grandchildren: Caldwell Drake Spence, Jr., Clint Alexander Spence, Rutledge Lucas Spence, Montford Whitfield Spence, Courtney Blaine Spence, Zachariah Julian Spence, Kylie Elizabeth Spence, Lauren Hancock Spence and Corrie Brooke Spence.

Proceedings in the House of Representatives

WEDNESDAY, September 5, 2001

The House met at 2 p.m.

The Chaplain, the Reverend Daniel P. Coughlin, offered the following prayer:

God of our forebears in faith, and ever-present Lord of life,
Be with us as we begin this fall session of the 107th Congress.

Bless the families of all of the Members of the House of Representatives.

Bless also the workers in district offices and all the people met during summer recess.

Now, help all Members to focus their attention on the priorities set before them by the deepest desires of the American people and the honest dialog of colleagues in this House.

Encourage them in sincere debate until the best ideas surface.

Guide them to sound resolution on complex issues so that Your Holy Will will be accomplished in our time and bright hope be instilled in Your people.

Grant eternal peace to former Member, the Honorable FLOYD DAVIDSON SPENCE and former Chaplain, Dr. James David Ford, who died since our last gathering. May their families and friends be surrounded with the consolation and peace which You alone can offer.

May all Americans catch a glimpse of Your glory that they may risk everything to bring about Your Kingdom of truth, justice and love now and forever.

Amen.

IN HONOR OF OUR GREAT COLLEAGUE

Mr. HASTERT. Madam Speaker, it is my sad duty to announce to the House of Representatives the death of the late Honorable FLOYD SPENCE of South Carolina on August 16, 2001. His funeral was held in Columbia, South Carolina, on August 21, 2001.

Later today, the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt), the dean of the South Carolina delegation, will offer a resolution in memory of our beloved colleague. Members are invited to contact the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt) or the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Graham) if they wish to participate in this tribute. Members will be advised of plans for a subsequent special order in memory of FLOYD SPENCE. I think we will all remember FLOYD SPENCE for his love of this Nation, his love of this House, and his strong and spirited defense always for the armed services members of this country.

EXPRESSING SORROW OF THE HOUSE REGARDING DEATH OF THE
HONORABLE FLOYD SPENCE FROM THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I offer a privileged resolution (H. Res. 234) and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 234

Resolved, That the House has heard with profound sorrow of the death of the Honorable FLOYD SPENCE, a Representative from the State of South Carolina.

Resolved, That the Clerk communicate these resolutions to the Senate and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased.

Resolved, That when the House adjourns today, it adjourn as a further mark of respect to the memory of the deceased.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt) for 1 hour.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, while we were on recess, FLOYD SPENCE, a native South Carolinian, a friend of us all, and a Member of excellent standing passed away.

FLOYD was a star athlete, a student leader, a naval officer in Korea, a State legislator, and a pioneer Republican in a State that, at the time, was thoroughly Democratic.

For 30 long, dedicated years he served here proudly, with total loyalty to this grand old institution of the Republic and to the Armed Forces of the United States, which he effectively represented on the Committee on Armed Services for all of that time, 6 of those years as a very able chairman of the committee.

Many Members overcome obstructions or hurdles or suffer hardships to serve here. Few of us endure what FLOYD SPENCE endured, a double lung transplant. At the time, he was one of the few in America ever to survive such a procedure. I can recall his recounting how after the operation every movement of his body was excruciatingly painful. Yet, even though he had reason, I never heard him complain. I never heard him express anxiety about his condition. I never heard him boast.

(Trim Line)

I often heard him stand before groups, particularly from South Carolina, and tell them, "I am glad to be here." He would pause a minute and say, "Heck, I am glad to be anywhere." It was that kind of understated humor, that kind of affability, that kind of civility, that made him the gentleman from South Carolina on this floor, in the committee, not just in name but in the truest sense of the word. He left us all a worthy example to emulate, personally and professionally.

To his family, to his four proud sons, to Debbie, his wife, we extend our heartfelt sorrow. We will miss FLOYD too, but rest assured, we will always, always, remember him, and never forget his courage, his spirit, and the sterling example he left us of what it means to serve in this great institution.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Ortiz).

Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Speaker, I had the privilege of knowing FLOYD SPENCE for about 20 years. He was my good friend.

Just like my good friend, the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt), says, he had a great sense of humor. I can remember when one day he said, "You know, I have more spare parts than a used car dealer."

He was a great gentleman. I loved him. My family loved him, and Debbie, who nourished him when he had the double lung transplant. When we would see FLOYD, as the gentleman said, we would ask, "You have a new suit?" And he would say, "No, it is secondhand used." This was the kind of guy he was. We loved him.

To Debbie and his sons: We are going to miss this great American.

Mr. Speaker, like my colleagues, I rise with a heavy heart today as we pay tribute to a friend, a colleague, and a stalwart for our Nation's armed services and the country. FLOYD SPENCE and I were friends for as long as I have been in Congress.

In addition to his zeal and dedication on behalf of his constituents in his beloved South Carolina, I admired his outlook on life.

FLOYD was determined to squeeze every drop of life he could from his time on this Earth—and he succeeded.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

From the double lung transplant to the kidney transplant, FLOYD said he had more spare parts than a used car dealer. What was amazing was that he survived all this for so long. He had an amazing ability to recover from deadly afflictions.

He was supremely dedicated to his duty to South Carolina, to our armed services, and to the United States of America. I know this because I traveled with FLOYD to places on every part of this planet to inspect our military bases. Wherever we went, he insisted we talk to enlisted men, not just the generals.

Our Nation has lost a great hero. I have lost my friend, mi amigo.

I offer Debbie and his children—David, Zack, Benjamin and Caldwell—my deepest condolences for their loss.

FLOYD loved his family so very much. It was Debbie, when FLOYD had the double lung transplant and was at his lowest, who gave him the support and encouragement he needed, and nursed him back to health.

FLOYD had a stubborn resolution to live, to enjoy life. He knew his time was one day at a time—he told me that each day was extra icing on the cake of his life. The anti-rejection medicine he took greatly diminished his ability to ward off simple infections.

I will miss that giant of a man with a laugh he was quick to share. The camaraderie often noted as now missing in the House of Representatives had led our critics, and ourselves, and leads people to say that we lack either bipartisanship or simple human trust.

But because of my friendships with so many of my Republican colleagues, most notably my friend FLOYD SPENCE, I know the trust we engender here is real and it works on behalf of the American people.

We may disagree on the issues of the day, but we are united in our belief that close bipartisan relationships serve all of us and the American people we represent.

I will miss you, FLOYD. I thank the gentleman from South Carolina for speeding our consideration of this resolution today.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. Stump), chairman of the Committee on Armed Services.

Mr. STUMP. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this resolution recognizing the tragic and untimely death of our friend, colleague, and former chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, FLOYD SPENCE. He was a patriot, most of all a gentleman, and one of Congress' most ardent supporters and tireless advocates for our Nation's military.

During his long and distinguished career in the military and then public service, FLOYD devoted his life to the belief that there are certain principles worth defending: freedom, democracy, and the promise of global stability achieved through a policy of peace through strength.

As chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, FLOYD led our committee and this country through many tough times. It was largely due to his efforts that we were able to reverse the trend of the decline in spending for our military.

FLOYD leaves behind a proud legacy of accomplishment and service to our Nation and to the Armed Forces to which every public servant should aspire. It was a privilege to serve with him. I will miss him as a leader, a colleague, and most of all, a friend.

It is only fitting that we send FLOYD off with a traditional Navy farewell wish: fair winds and following seas.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Skelton), a ranking member of the Committee on Armed Services.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from South Carolina for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, FLOYD SPENCE was a true Southern gentleman, a good friend, a dedicated Congressman, and a champion of a strong national defense. I had the privilege and pleasure of serving with him on the Committee on Armed Services during his chairmanship, and I found that he always worked for the betterment of our men and women in uniform and for our national security. I will miss him. I will miss him very much.

Almost a year ago, an overflow crowd gathered in the Committee on Armed Services hearing room for the unveiling of FLOYD's portrait as chairman of the committee. Often we do not have the chance to let friends know how we feel about them before they are gone, so I am very grateful that we had that evening together to enjoy FLOYD's company, and to let him know personally how much he meant to us.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

FLOYD SPENCE began serving this country as an active duty member of the U.S. Naval Reserve during the Korean conflict. That service continued until the end of his life.

Our former chairman understood that our Nation needs a strong national defense, and he worked tirelessly with Members on both sides of the aisle to strengthen our Armed Forces and to take care of the men and women in uniform and their families. No one spoke out more forcefully on the need to maintain readiness.

On rare occasions we disagreed, but never disagreeably. Our relationship was one of mutual respect based upon values which we both learned in small towns named Lexington, one in South Carolina and one in Missouri.

During the years FLOYD SPENCE served on the Committee on Armed Services, he blessed us with his leadership, honored us with his friendship, and inspired us with his courage. FLOYD SPENCE was courteous, he was thoughtful, he was respectful of others. It was a pleasure for me to serve in Congress with this decent, fair, and honorable man. We are all the richer for his years of dedicated service to the Committee on Armed Services, the Congress of the United States, the people of South Carolina, and our Nation.

I extend my deepest sympathy to his wife, Debbie, to his four sons, and to his entire family.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Sam Johnson), a true American hero and a former POW.

Mr. SAM JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Tonight I rise to pay tribute to a great American. He was a true patriot, my friend, FLOYD SPENCE.

FLOYD and I first became friends when I came to the Congress in 1991. As a career Air Force fighter pilot for 29 years, I felt inclined to keep abreast of issues of importance to our national security and Armed Forces. Knowing my passion for the military, FLOYD went out of his way to update me early and often, even though I had not served on his committee.

In fact, because I was a POW in Vietnam and also a veteran of the Korean war, FLOYD turned to me in confidence regarding issues before his committees, the Committee on Veterans' Affairs and the Committee on Armed Services, and he found it important to hear an outside perspective.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

He was a true conservative. He did support our American military and our American way of life in all that he did. FLOYD was a true friend and a faithful leader for our men and women in the Armed Forces, and he always put our services' interest first and foremost.

Mr. Speaker, just this year FLOYD traveled with us to the Paris air show, where he looked there at foreign airplanes and ours in demonstration, and how proud he was of our own Armed Forces when they were out there performing before the world. It was a reflection that just made me admire him all the more.

In reflection, I am sad that I can no longer turn to my friend FLOYD on the floor. His family and friends are in my thoughts and prayers. I know he is in a better place. FLOYD SPENCE was and is a great American.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. Hayworth).

Mr. HAYWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I thank the ranking member of the Committee on the Budget and the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt) for yielding me time as we join tonight in true bipartisan fashion to remember and pay tribute to our great and good friend, FLOYD SPENCE.

The gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt) outlined the resume of accomplishments of our friend FLOYD, the fact that he was a star athlete at the University of South Carolina. Now that football season has started, I think of his beloved Gamecocks that have had great success last year and show promise in this season. He was captain of the track team, one who served this country with distinction as an officer in the Navy. The gentleman from South Carolina is right: he set the pace for a Republican birth in the 20th century in South Carolina in 1962.

He came to this institution 3 decades ago. Mr. Speaker, I think of the lives he has touched, the difference he made for this Nation, not with grand and glorious orations, but with simple acts of kindness and repeated instances of a healthy dose of common sense.

He understood that our Constitution clearly calls for this Nation and this government to provide for the common defense. He made no bones about his feelings and his priority for national security. And through it all in his days here he showed us the gift of being able to disagree without being disagreeable. Mr. Speaker, no Member of this House is as beloved as our friend FLOYD.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

We thank him for his service. We thank his family and the State of South Carolina for giving us in this House a remarkable public servant.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Utah (Mr. Hansen).

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I walked in this place in 1980, and I was asked to sit on the Committee on Ethics. Nobody wants to serve on the Committee on Ethics, but the ranking member of the Committee on Ethics happened to be FLOYD SPENCE. FLOYD served there for years and years and years.

We had a horrible case right off the bat. It was called the sex scandal with pages made up by CBS and one of their reporters. FLOYD handled that with more dignity than I have ever seen anyone handle anything. He was the ranking member, and he served longer on that committee than anybody in this House.

I hate to admit it, but I matched it at 14 years when I was on the Committee on Ethics. He did that with great distinction. I remember when we used to watch FLOYD come across in a wheelchair with his girl Caroline pulling him across there with the oxygen. He heard of a doctor down in Mississippi who could do a double lung transplant, a doctor from India. He did this with a young boy who was killed on a motorcycle. He became very close to the family.

He called the mother Mom. She used to come up here. They were very close. That is what we would expect from a man like FLOYD SPENCE, a man who was a Navy captain himself, who had more compassion for people than most I have ever seen in my life. I stand amazed at the compassion he had and point out what a gentleman he was. It is too bad there are not more Southern gentlemen left in America today, a person who always opened the door for somebody, a person who took somebody for what they were and not what they could give them. This is the kind of person that FLOYD SPENCE was.

I have to say that the people who wear the uniform today, if you are watching this today and you are a private or a general, you owe an awful lot to FLOYD SPENCE. I do not know a man among this bunch of 435 of us who looked out more for the military. He used to say, I make no bones about it. I will take care of our military boys, our enlisted kids, our officers; and we will have the best we can.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

He left a legacy for all of us. I appreciate FLOYD SPENCE. To his wife, Debbie, and his family, we wish them the very best.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. Bereuter).

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, FLOYD SPENCE was a good, valued, and valuable Member of this House. He will be missed greatly. I want his family to know and all of his friends and constituents what a tremendous contribution he has made to the country. The gentleman from Utah (Mr. Hansen) just outlined in brief form the contributions he made to our armed services.

FLOYD SPENCE was a living, breathing, walking miracle and he knew it. It affected his life, and it affected all of us who knew FLOYD.

I had a friendship with him my entire 23 years here. He began his service earlier than that. We shared a passion for planting trees on our respective acreage in South Carolina and Nebraska. We are members of the same religious denomination. We talked about religion and its importance to us many times. Mostly, I knew FLOYD SPENCE because of his involvement with the NATO Parliamentary Assembly, formerly known as the North Atlantic Assembly. I chair that delegation and have since 1995. FLOYD, much senior to me, was a very valuable member of that delegation. All of us on that delegation, Republicans, Democrats and our spouses and staff, miss the tremendous contributions that he has made. We miss them already.

He was a member of the Defense and Security Committee of the NATO Parliamentary Assembly and, of course, as a chairman and then former chairman of our House Committee on Armed Services, his word was greatly respected and sought after in that Assembly. FLOYD did not speak often; but when he did, people listened. At our last meeting he was an important contributor on a discussion about national missile defense. Regardless of how one feels about that subject, he made us proud that he was a Member of the House of Representatives.

So to Debbie and his four sons, whom he talked about all the time, and their families, we offer our most sincere condolences. FLOYD made a major contribution to this country. We thank him, we thank you, his family, for sharing his talent and his courageous character with this House.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. Hunter), one of FLOYD's closest friends.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, I recall when a number of us went down a few days ago to the memorial service in South Carolina, I thought one of the great parts of the eulogy was when FLOYD's doctor who did the double lung transplant read the nurse's notes that were transcribed the day that FLOYD got married, shortly after the operation. He read the nurse's notes saying, "It appears now people are filing into the hospital room for a marriage." She seemed to be somewhat surprised by that, and later on it said in fact the marriage ceremony had taken place; and she concluded, "The patient has tolerated the marriage well so far."

I thought that was a great remark and reflection on FLOYD SPENCE's life because FLOYD SPENCE tolerated a lot of things well. He tolerated discord and disharmony and tough times and times when it seemed like all of political opinion was going against you. He was a man of steel. It has been mentioned he was a man of great civility. He also had literally an absolute iron backbone. I can remember watching FLOYD SPENCE tell a Speaker of the House in no uncertain terms, "no," something that is pretty difficult to do.

I recall his days talking to Strom Thurmond back in the early 1960s, and he said, "I think I am going to change parties and become a Republican." Strom Thurmond said, "I do not think the district is ready for that." The district was not ready for it. I think he lost his first campaign for the Congress, but later on was elected to the seat that he has held for more than 30 years. He talked about that day, and whether you are a Democrat or a Republican you have to admire the absolute iron will of this guy who walked down the streets of his hometown having changed parties in a State that still remembered the War between the States, and where lots of folks had lots of ancestors who lost parts of their bodies in the Civil War and lost lots of other things and was still a place where there were feelings about that war and about Mr. Lincoln's armies.

FLOYD SPENCE walked down the streets of his hometown and had people, friends and neighbors, who had known him for years turn their backs on him. I recall he said he walked into the post office and an old friend who had been with him for years walked up to him, turned his back to him deliberately and said, "I used to have a great friend but now he is dead," and walked away.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

I thought, what a remarkable resolution and resolve and strength this guy had to have to do that at a time when it was very, very difficult politically. Yet, with this great strength and determination and resolve that resided in FLOYD SPENCE's heart, we never heard him brag. The only people he talked about, if he was talking about his family, were his grandkids and his kids and all of his wonderful daughters-in-law.

FLOYD SPENCE left us with a legacy of civility. If we follow that legacy of civility, along with the resolve to follow our principles as strongly as he did, we will continue to be a great Nation.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds to add to what the gentleman just told. The best part of the doctor's story was he said he was beeped. He thought surely something happened to FLOYD. He was well away from the hospital so he rushed to the telephone. He called the number. They put FLOYD on the phone; and he said to the surgeon, "Doctor, I'm getting married." The doctor said, "Fine. That is wonderful. When?" FLOYD said, "Right now."

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. BROWN).

Mr. BROWN of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, we honor a great American and a great South Carolinian who will be sorely missed not only here in the halls of Congress but in the entire Nation.

His leadership in the area of national security is without equal. FLOYD SPENCE had been hailed by Democrats and Republicans for devotion to God and country. He spent his career fighting for our men and women in uniform. He was a strong advocate of improving the life of military personnel including pay raises and better living conditions. He understood that a well-trained and equipped military is the first priority by the Federal Government and the best way to preserve the peace.

FLOYD leaves behind a legacy of accomplishment that includes service in the U.S. Navy, 6 years in the South Carolina House, 4 years in the Senate and 3 decades in the U.S. House of Representatives.

In 1971 he was the first House Member to sponsor a constitutional amendment calling for a balanced budget.

He served for 13 years as the ranking Republican on the Committee on Ethics, and he also chaired with distinction the House Committee on Armed Services from 1995 to 2001.

FLOYD SPENCE was one of our most distinguished patriotic public servants as well as a Southern gentleman in the best of the tradition. He was a great colleague and a wonderful friend. His guidance, optimism, statesmanship, and strong leadership will be missed by all that knew him. He was a mentor to me and a great friend. God bless FLOYD SPENCE and his family.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. Gilman).

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to rise on this occasion to join our colleagues in paying tribute to our good friend FLOYD SPENCE, to the people of South Carolina, of expressing our heartfelt condolences to the family of our distinguished friend FLOYD.

FLOYD was a true Southern gentleman, a good friend to many of us, a committed husband and father, and a dedicated public servant to the men and women of our Armed Forces and to the people of South Carolina and to his beloved Nation.

I have had the pleasure and honor of serving in the Congress with FLOYD for more than 3 decades.

As a Navy veteran, he was a staunch, unwavering advocate for our men and women in uniform. As chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, he fought tirelessly to improve the quality of life for our military personnel.

FLOYD was a man of great perseverance. From his early football injury through his more recent lung transplant, FLOYD continued to give all he had to others, and he committed his life to fully serving his people in South Carolina.

FLOYD SPENCE was elected to serve the Second District of South Carolina in the House of Representatives in 1970 and served some 15 terms. In 1971, he was the first House Member to sponsor a constitutional amendment calling for a balanced budget. He served for 13 years as the ranking Republican on the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, and in 1995 was named chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, where he served with distinction, always keeping in mind the national security of our great Nation.

Georgia and I join the many friends and Members of this body in sending our prayers and condolences to his wife, Deborah, his four sons, David, Zack, Benjamin and Caldwell, and to all of the members of the Spence family. FLOYD's public service was a testimony to his life, a model for all of us.

He will be sorely missed, not only by his colleagues, but by the entire Nation.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, being from South Carolina and in politics, having people around for awhile is not an unusual circumstance. Senator Thurmond, most people recognize his name, was elected in 1954; I was born in 1955. We tend to keep people around.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt) led this debate, and I know that the family is very appreciative of all of the kind words. In South Carolina we pride ourselves on being a delegation that comes together for the good of the State, and remembers our upbringing pretty well. Every now and then we fuss and fight, but I doubt if my colleagues will find any Democrat or Republican in this body that ever had a disagreement with FLOYD, that they walked away from that disagreement believing anything less of the man. That is something we are losing in the country.

I have been in politics since 1994. It has been a contentious time, but we have done a lot. In a delegation this small, Members get to know each other pretty well, and FLOYD SPENCE was the nicest person I have ever met in political life. That is saying a lot coming from my State, because most of us try to be nice to each other. And the fact that so many Members came to speak of his kindness and his commitment to the men and women in the military proves that Members can be quiet and make loud statements.

FLOYD will not be known by the volume that he carried, but by what was in his heart. FLOYD did change parties. At the time that was tough, but I do not know of any Democrats back home that thought that FLOYD SPENCE was anything other than a gentleman. Any disagreements with FLOYD were political, never personal.

He had a devoted wife, Debbie, and many Members know about that situation. The marriage that the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Spratt) was referring to was to his second wife, Debbie Spence, who was a devoted wife and friend to FLOYD, and they were married in the hospital right after his historic double lung transplant. I have never met anyone more devoted to their spouse than Debbie. FLOYD often said he was blessed to have two special women in his life—his first and second wives. FLOYD was also very proud of his four sons. He said he had four boys that all married female women. To know FLOYD, that made sense. He was very proud of his family and his grandchildren.

(Trim Line)

In the 10 years-plus after he received a double lung transplant and eventually a kidney transplant, he said, this is my second life.

Mr. Speaker, FLOYD appreciated every day the good Lord gave him. He has a group of grandchildren, varied ages, some of them very, very young. They have something exciting to behold in their life. They will not be able to know their grandfather like we knew him. They will hear about him through family and friends. They will hear about FLOYD through a thousand different ways.

They will hear about their grandfather from statements in the post office, "Was your grandfather FLOYD SPENCE?" And they will say, "Yes." People will say, "Let me tell a story, how he helped me."

I do not think there is any better legacy than what FLOYD left behind: kindness to everybody, a smile on his face. This body has lost a real gentleman and a true friend to the men and women who serve in the military.

Mr. Speaker, if we could all be more like FLOYD SPENCE, we would be a better Nation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Stearns).

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Speaker, I was with FLOYD on his last trip. We flew into Paris to go to the Lafayette Escadrille Memorial, a memorial to recognize 60 Americans in World War I who fought with the French against the Germans. These 60 individuals were killed in France, and they were memorialized at the Lafayette Escadrille, a large memorial. Congressman SPENCE led the delegation, and I gave a speech on their behalf, and he was a strong participant.

I will cherish that trip because that was the last time I spent any time with FLOYD. I think, as pointed out by other speakers, he was a gentleman in the real sense of the word, but he also had a spirit, a spirit of survival, a spiritual makeup that one felt he was in tune with the Lord, and that he continually reminded all of us to appreciate each and every day.

I will miss him when he used to come up on the House floor and say hello. He would always have that kind of expression, and when asked how he was doing, he would respond, "I am here and I am very thankful."

When we talk about a person's life, if Members can talk about him with a certain sense of joy, I think that is a positive thing, and I think we are here tonight to say in many ways he brought joy to our lives with his spirit. I am speaking tonight about his accomplishments, but also about his spirit.

(Trim Line)

Mr. Speaker, I served 10 years on the Committee on Veterans' Affairs with him, and in addition to the active military personnel, he was very interested in the retired military, particularly veterans. He was very religious in his attending of subcommittee assignments. I was impressed that he, as chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, would still have time to come to our Committee on Veterans' Affairs, and his participation was very active and commendable considering how much he had on his plate.

Mr. Speaker, I think it should be pointed out that many of us did not see him in his prime athletic years when he was a great athlete. We saw him here with the various replacements he had with his lungs, his kidney, but we did not have the opportunity to see him when he was a strong athlete. He was a leader, a naval officer, and when Members look at the spectrum of his career, it was magnificent and impressive; and when one tops that with his love for the country, it was a perfect package, and I close on that note.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Guam (Mr. Underwood).

Mr. UNDERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, FLOYD SPENCE was a remarkable individual. He was remarkable for his accomplishments: The fact that he was a steady voice for the national security of this country; the fact that he led the Committee on Armed Services with such great distinction. He was a statesman in the truest sense of the word.

In a way it is not so much all of the things that he did, but his demeanor, the way that he carried himself throughout his efforts that really I think inspires many Members to come to the floor this evening to make commentary on FLOYD.

He came to the chairmanship of the Committee on Armed Services at a time when the majority took over the House, and in a way, the majority was very fortunate to have a leader like him because he was steadfast in his principles, yet he was not personally very polarizing; and as a consequence, he was able to sustain his positions very well and successfully.

Frequently we hear the phrase, kind of a trite phrase, "Courtesy is contagious," but with regard to FLOYD SPENCE, it really was. He was a very kind man. In my personal interactions with him, he always found the time to talk and ask me about how the military was doing in Guam, and what he could do to help us. In that sense, courtesy was contagious. He was the quintessential Southern gentleman. There are still many examples of that around, and we are happy to see that, and I hope it continues to infect the rest of us here who are not from the South.

(Trim Line)

Mr. Speaker, I pay tribute to FLOYD who was my chairman for 6 years. He was a joy to work with, and certainly an inspirational figure in his own way, and it demonstrates that in politics it is not the power of words, but the power of spirit that carries the day. He provided ample evidence of that in his own work.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. Ryun).

Mr. RYUN of Kansas. Mr. Speaker, I have very fond memories of FLOYD SPENCE. As a freshman on the Committee on Armed Services looking for direction, he was always there as a friend, and he was willing to give counsel.

I particularly remember when I asked him to come to Fort Riley in my district to visit the soldiers and see the installation and meet the people. As I visit with people back in the district, they still remember him as being very warm, very committed, very sincere, and a great leader.

Mr. Speaker, most people have a birthday every year in their life just to celebrate life, but the one thing that always interested me with Mr. SPENCE was, the Committee on Armed Services had a birthday to celebrate his lungs because he had been given a special gift as a result of complications he had in his life.

My family and I loved him very much. He was always very kind to them. He was willing to give time whenever he could provide it. He was a man who knew he had been given a great gift from God. He fought for what was right for this country, even if it meant going against members of his own party because he had that kind of commitment. Debbie was a great contribution to his life.

Mr. Speaker, I want to finish by saying Mr. SPENCE will be missed, and we thank him very much for his great contributions to this great Nation.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. DeMint).

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

Mr. DeMINT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a true champion of freedom from the great State of South Carolina, Congressman FLOYD SPENCE. It was an honor and a personal privilege to serve with FLOYD in Congress and get to know him over the past few years. He served his district, his State and his country by fighting for the values that we all cherish. He was a true patriot and a remarkable man.

FLOYD became a personal friend of mine, and I remember so many occasions on the back of this floor just talking with him. It was his encouragement and sense of humor that gave me a good perspective of our work here: to keep the focus on our country and security and what is best for those who live here. He was an inspiration to me, and I want to honor him tonight.

As you know, FLOYD was a walking medical miracle. In 1988, at age 60, he underwent a then rare double lung transplant. In 1990 when asked to reflect about this operation, FLOYD said "I thank my maker for allowing me to have a second life." This past year he also had a kidney transplant. His doctor characterized FLOYD as a man of extraordinary courage who respected and embraced life. He often said that he was "grateful for any additional day God granted him." Through those experiences, FLOYD continued to serve and became an active supporter of organ donor awareness programs.

Congressman SPENCE was recognized around the world as an authority on defense issues. Vice President Dick Cheney recently said Mr. SPENCE was one of the watchmen over America's security. He had a deep respect for the military, and that respect was returned. He was a patriot who served his country well. FLOYD was chairman emeritus of the Committee on Armed Services, and a senior member of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs. He was the only Member of Congress to have served as chairman of the Committee on National Security.

A decorated veteran himself, he received many military honors. Most recently, Congressman SPENCE received the 2001 Distinguished Service Award from the Military Order of the World Wars.

Before coming to Congress in 1970, Congressman SPENCE was a member of the South Carolina House of Representatives from 1956 to 1962 and the South Carolina Senate from 1966 to 1970. He was a man of faith, a solid conservative, a wise mentor and a shining example of service to myself and the rest of the delegation.

My heart goes out to his wife Debbie and the entire SPENCE family. Our prayers are with you as you grieve—thank you for sharing such a man of integrity with us.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Buyer).

Mr. BUYER. Mr. Speaker, I wanted to come to the floor tonight and also join in the eulogy of a friend of the House and a friend of the country. FLOYD SPENCE, I think, was an individual whom many of us here in this body could call a friend, because FLOYD in his aw-shucks kind of Southern gentleman demeanor would come up and ask you, “how is your health, how are you doing, how is your family.” And he always put the needs of others ahead of himself. Even though FLOYD may have been failing in his health, he always wanted to know how you were doing and how you were feeling. That was a lot about who FLOYD was and the impact he had on a lot of us and the impact he left upon a country, because he dedicated his life to public service.

It was truly honorable in the manner in which he conducted not only his everyday life but also his profession. He had so many positive attributes that he could not help but have an impact upon each of us and as a Nation. I think as an individual that dedicated his efforts to national security and making sure that the men and women who wear the uniform, when they take that uniform off, in his dedicated service to the Committee on Veterans’ Affairs, he made sure that that solemn oath that that veteran took, that the government in fact fulfilled their commitments to the veterans of this Nation. He taught each of us every day that freedom is not free and that we must be vigilant as a Nation, leaning forward so that we could respond.

FLOYD may not be with us in body but the lives FLOYD SPENCE touched will be forever with us in spirit. There is a song and the lyrics of that song may have been heard but not listened to by many and it is that life is about more than who we are, it is about what we do with the span of time in which we have. FLOYD embodied that. He made sure that the imprint that he left upon each of us and the Nation was one that was very positive.

FLOYD, to your family, you spoke often of your sons and of your grandchildren, we wish you and your family well. One day we will join you, my friend.

Mr. SPRATT. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. WATTS of Oklahoma. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I join my colleagues in bidding a fond farewell to our colleague and “my chairman,” FLOYD SPENCE, who died last month. Our condolences to his wife Deborah and his four children. FLOYD SPENCE was a hero, a patriot, a family man, a man of God, and, above all, a gentleman. In his more than 30 years in this body, he demonstrated civility, respect and kindness toward his colleagues. He was in the finest tradition of Southern gentlemen.

Mr. Speaker, FLOYD SPENCE served his country honorably in the U.S. Navy, on active duty in the Korean war era, and then as a reservist, even while a Member of Congress for decades thereafter. His commitment to our troops in uniform was unsurpassed and obvious to those of us who served with him.

In his role as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee for the 6 years ending in January, FLOYD really came into his own, in highlighting the deteriorating condition of our Armed Forces and strengthening congressional resolve to address this issue.

I was honored to be in attendance at his funeral, along with Vice President Cheney, Secretary Rumsfeld and so many others. His voice will be missed in this body, but never forgotten.

Mr. EVERETT. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I stand here today to honor the memory of a dear friend and respected colleague, FLOYD SPENCE. FLOYD was a patriot and a statesman who devoted his 30 years in Congress to securing America’s defense and supporting our Nation’s veterans. As such, he was a well-known voice of experience and leadership on both the House Armed Services and Veterans’ Affairs Committees, on which he proudly served for much of his career.

FLOYD assumed the powerful chairmanship of the Armed Services Committee when Republicans gained control of the Congress in 1995. He quickly proved himself a skilled chairman, pushing for and securing billions more in desperately needed defense funding when the Clinton administration was seeking to gut the military to pay for the massive growth of government social programs. FLOYD helped to save and protect our national defense and laid the groundwork for the current drive to rebuild and redefine our defense capability to better respond to the challenges of the new century battlefield.

Winning tough battles was not uncommon for FLOYD. During his tenure, the gentleman from South Carolina was successful in instituting instrumental legislative initiatives while gaining the admiration and friendship of Members from both sides of the aisle.

His quiet strength also got him through some very rough health challenges. Despite these problems, I never heard FLOYD complain. In fact, I can't recall him ever walking into a room without a smile and kind word.

FLOYD was a great American and a personal friend. I greatly value my days serving with him, especially on the Armed Services and Veterans' Affairs Committees. He was a source of wisdom and counsel on difficult issues, and his presence in these hallowed halls will be sorely missed.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. Speaker, also on the note earlier echoed by the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Buyer, we will miss FLOYD but he has made us all richer.

APPOINTMENT OF MEMBERS TO ATTEND FUNERAL OF THE LATE HONORABLE FLOYD SPENCE

Mr. McHugh of New York;
Mr. Chambliss of Georgia.

NATIONAL DEFENSE

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I would like to pay my personal tribute to one of our colleagues who passed away over the break, the Honorable FLOYD SPENCE.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

I had known FLOYD SPENCE as many of our colleagues did in a very personal way over the past 15 years that I have served in the Congress. He was a leader on national security issues when I came to the Congress. He was one of those individuals that I looked up to for guidance and for early orientation to fully understand the role of the Congress in making sure that our military was being properly supported.

Congressman SPENCE, Chairman SPENCE, was one of those unique individuals who had severe health problems, in fact had a major double lung transplant, and had gone through turmoil in his life from the health standpoint. I can remember the days when they wheeled him to the floor of the House in a wheelchair with a ventilator, yet he came back and rose to become the full chairman of the House Armed Services Committee and for 6 years he led this body in issues affecting our national security.

He was a quiet man, a gentle man, someone that never had a cross word for anyone, even those he disagreed with and was someone who would be a role model for someone aspiring to become a Member of this body. He had a profound influence. During a time of difficulty in the 1990s when defense budgets were not what they should have been, it was Chairman FLOYD SPENCE who rose above the political fray and led this Congress in a very bipartisan way to increase defense spending by approximately $43 billion over President Clinton's request for defense over a 6-year time period. If it had not been for Chairman SPENCE fighting tirelessly for our military, for the quality of life for our troops, if it had not been for Chairman SPENCE fighting for modernization and fighting for the basic dignity of our military, I do not know where we would be today.

Thank goodness Chairman SPENCE was here. Thank goodness he was fighting the battle. Thank goodness he was building bipartisan coalitions on behalf of the sons and daughters of America serving in uniform. He did a fantastic job in this body. He was someone who had many friends on both sides of the aisle and someone who will be terribly missed. I could not attend the funeral of Chairman SPENCE because I was in Huntsville, Alabama, giving a major speech to 800 people on missile defense.

It was only because of Chairman SPENCE's leadership that we have moved missile defense along as far as it has gone. As a tribute to him on that opening day of the conference, the entire group joined in a prayer together, a prayer of sympathy for the family of FLOYD, for his wife and his sons, and to let all of America know that FLOYD SPENCE has been a true champion, one of our real patriots.

(Trim Line)

It was just last April, Mr. Speaker, when I had the pleasure of recognizing Chairman FLOYD SPENCE at our annual National Fire and Emergency Services Dinner. We have two types of defenders that we support in America: Our international defenders, our military, and FLOYD SPENCE was definitely their champion. That night as we have for the past 14 years, we honored our domestic defenders.

Our domestic defenders are the men and women who serve in the 32,000 organized fire and EMS departments all across the country. We honored FLOYD SPENCE that night because 6 months prior, in last year's defense authorization bill, it was FLOYD SPENCE as chairman working with the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Skelton), who just left this Chamber, who allowed me to move forward legislation that created a grant program to provide matching funds for local fire and EMS departments so that they can better equip themselves to be America's domestic defenders. On that night, 2,000 leaders of the fire and emergency services from all over America gave FLOYD SPENCE a standing ovation for the work that he had done on behalf of our domestic defenders.

So FLOYD SPENCE's legacy is a legacy that all of us could look up to and hope to achieve, one of supporting those people who wear the uniform, the uniform to protect America overseas, and the uniform to protect America at home. To FLOYD's family, his wife, his sons, we say thank you for giving us a tireless public servant whose legacy will live on forever, who did so much in such a short period of time and who will be so sorely missed in this body and in the minds and hearts of military leaders across this country and around the world where our troops are stationed. FLOYD SPENCE was a true American hero.

EXPRESSING SORROW OF THE HOUSE REGARDING DEATH OF THE
HONORABLE FLOYD SPENCE FROM THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, Like most of my colleagues, I was in my district—the southside of Chicago—when the news of the death of our friend, FLOYD SPENCE came. I was shocked and saddened by the knowledge that this institution had lost yet another Member.

Born in 1928 in South Carolina, FLOYD SPENCE was a product of the South Carolina schools and a member of the U.S. Naval Reserve. He was first elected to public office in 1956, the South Carolina House of Representatives, and he served there until 1962. He was elected to the South Carolina Senate in 1966 and served until 1970.

(Trim Line)

FLOYD SPENCE began his 30 years of service in this body in 1971 and he served three terms as chairman of the Armed Services/National Security Committee in the House before yielding the gavel to his successor at the beginning of the current Congress. Throughout his congressional career, FLOYD SPENCE served the citizens of South Carolina's Second Congressional District, and the citizens of this Nation, well.

Mr. Speaker, FLOYD SPENCE was my neighbor in the Rayburn Building. I will remember his cheerful greetings as we passed in the hallways and in the elevators. He was always optimistic, always upbeat, always energetic, always courtly, always the gentleman. I will also always appreciate the unfailing kindness and courtesy of his staff.

Mr. Speaker, my prayers go with his family, his friends, his constituents and his staff, at this time of sorrow. I ask my colleagues to join me in support of this Resolution expressing the condolences of this House on the passing of the Honorable FLOYD SPENCE.

COMMEMORATING THE LIFE OF THE HONORABLE FLOYD SPENCE
OF SOUTH CAROLINA, 1928-2001

Mr. HILLEARY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the life and public service of a great advocate for our Nation's defense, a true gentleman in the finest Southern tradition, and my good friend, FLOYD SPENCE.

For those of us who knew him only later in life, it may come as a surprise that this gentle soul spent his early life as a terror on the gridiron at Lexington High School and the University of South Carolina. It's less of a surprise that he had a distinguished 36-year career in the Naval Reserve, because his knowledge of our Nation's military was rivaled only by his deep affection for it.

Mr. SPENCE was a leader with the courage of his convictions. He became a Republican in 1962, when Republicans in the South were still a rare commodity. That party switch cost him an election, but the people of South Carolina came to respect his courage and shortly thereafter sent him to Congress in 1970. By the time I first came to Capitol Hill in 1994, Southern Republicans had become relatively commonplace. That happened because people like FLOYD SPENCE followed their conscience and accepted the consequences willingly.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

When I met FLOYD, he was then the newly installed chairman of what was then called the House National Security Committee. He handled his considerable responsibility with grace and dignity, displaying fairness to all Members, regardless of party, and showing considerable patience with us freshmen who showed up full of enthusiasm but short on experience.

Chairman SPENCE knew that freedom isn't free and deeply believed that lasting peace could best be achieved through unquestioned strength. He pushed for better funding for training, modernization, readiness and quality of life initiatives. His leadership was instrumental in finally stemming the tide of declining defense budgets and placing our military on the road to recovery. The soldier enjoying his new pay raise, the military families moving into improved post housing, the pilot stepping into a much-needed new fighter jet—each of these people, and many others, can thank FLOYD SPENCE for fighting for them. We would be well-advised to continue along the path to recovery that this remarkable man worked so hard to put us on.

An old historian once noted that, "Great men are not often good men." Well, FLOYD SPENCE was certainly both. Those of us who have had the great opportunity to know him are far better for the privilege.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 234, I move the House do now adjourn in memory of the late Honorable FLOYD SPENCE.

The motion was agreed to; accordingly (at 11 o'clock and 29 minutes p.m.) pursuant to House Resolution 234, the House adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, September 6, 2001, at 10 a.m. in memory of the late Honorable FLOYD SPENCE.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2002

Mr. STUMP. Madam Chairman, as the House is about to move to final passage on this defense authorization bill, I think it is appropriate that we take a moment to note that this will be the first defense bill in over 30 years that we have passed that FLOYD SPENCE did not have a part in. FLOYD had a hand in shaping and guiding all the defense bills for the last 3 decades, and particularly in the last 6 years where he served as chairman of the House Committee on Armed Services.

Madam Chairman, there was not a stronger defender of our military, no truer friend of the men and women in uniform, and no tougher critic on those who allowed our defenses to deteriorate over the years. FLOYD SPENCE had vision, he had sense of purpose, and he had a clear commitment to ensuring that the Congress fulfill its constitutional obligation to provide for the common defense.

We all miss FLOYD, but I did not want this moment to go without the record reflecting his leadership, his commitment, and his wise counsel on national security matters, which still burns bright in many of us that were privileged to work with this quiet, unassuming and passionate American patriot.

Mr. SKELTON. Madam Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. STUMP. I yield to the gentleman from Missouri.

Mr. SKELTON. Madam Chairman, I applaud the gentleman on his comments and his memory of FLOYD SPENCE. He was truly a gentleman's gentleman, a true Southern gentleman, from his infectious laugh to his strong support of the troops. We will recall him very, very fondly; and I thank the gentleman for his remembrance of him.

Proceedings in the Senate

THURSDAY, September 6, 2001

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

At 12:29 p.m., a message from the House of Representatives, delivered by Ms. Niland, one of its reading clerks, announced that the House has passed the following bills, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate:

The message also announced that the House has agreed to the following resolution:

H. Res. 234. Resolution stating that the House has heard with profound sorrow of the death of the Honorable FLOYD SPENCE, a Representative from the State of South Carolina.

IN MEMORY OF CONGRESSMAN FLOYD SPENCE

Mr. THURMOND. Mr. President, last month, the U.S. Congress lost one of the finest public servants I have had the honor to know. As my colleagues may know, Congressman FLOYD SPENCE, who represented South Carolina's Second District, passed away on August 16, 2001. FLOYD SPENCE may no longer walk the halls of Congress, but the countless contributions he made over the last 3 decades will continue to influence South Carolina and this great Nation.

FLOYD was a humble public servant who was proud of his modest background, often introducing himself as "FLOYD SPENCE, dirt farmer." He was a principled man who could disarm anyone with his friendly disposition and his distinct chuckle. It was difficult, if not impossible, for anyone to dislike FLOYD.

Too often we take life for granted, but not FLOYD SPENCE. As a beneficiary of two organ transplants, he knew too well he had been given not just a second, but a third chance at life. As a result, FLOYD lived life to the fullest, dedicating it to the service of others and his Nation.

FLOYD's generosity was demonstrated by his willingness to lend an ear to those who faced the frightening prospect of a transplant, or the even scarier possibility of not receiving an organ in time. Having faced these fears himself, he welcomed the opportunity to comfort individuals from across the United States who called to ask him about his own experience.

(Trim Line)

My friend, ever the Southern gentleman, leaves behind a legacy of dedicated public service. For almost 50 years he loyally served the people of South Carolina. FLOYD was also an outspoken advocate for our armed services and had served as chairman for the House Armed Services Committee. As a retired Naval Reserve officer, he recognized the importance of a strong military and worked tirelessly to ensure that the needs of our armed services were addressed.

He was a true patriot, a dedicated public servant, and he will be greatly missed by all who knew him. FLOYD is an inspiration to all, and my heartfelt sympathy goes out to his devoted wife Debbie, and his fine sons, David, Zack, Ben, and Caldwell, and to his dedicated staff.

The Gentleman from the Land of the Palmetto

a Tribute to the Hon. FLOYD DAVIDSON SPENCE

Rep. FLOYD SPENCE, a retired Naval Reserve captain and ROA Life Member, died on Thursday, 16 August 2001. Rep. SPENCE, a graduate of the University of South Carolina and its law school, never recovered from surgery on 9 August to remove a blood clot from his brain. FLOYD SPENCE was a strong proponent of Pentagon funding requirements and was chairman of the House Armed Services Committee (HASC) from 1995 until January 2001. He served as chairman of the HASC procurement subcommittee until his death and was a senior member of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

"I was in Scotland attending an international legislative symposium when I received word of the passing of my good friend Congressman FLOYD SPENCE," Rep. Howard Coble (R.-N.C.) told The Officer. It's humorous what thoughts pop into your head at times such as these, but I began thinking about the first time I heard FLOYD SPENCE's name.

"I was elected to Congress in 1984." Representative Coble continued, "and after winning that first election, I began receiving congratulatory calls. One friend told me about a friend of his who was serving with distinction in Washington, FLOYD SPENCE from South Carolina. My friend had played high school football against FLOYD, and despite the fact they were on different teams, they became good friends. He told me to be sure to contact FLOYD SPENCE when I went to Washington, which I did.

"I am so proud that I had the chance to serve alongside FLOYD in the U.S. House. He was a tenacious fighter for his district, his state, and his nation. He fought the good fight in both his personal and professional life. We all know the stories about his personal health battles—including his double lung transplants. While he was still in the hospital recovering from that major event, I noticed that none of his South Carolina colleagues had said anything on the House floor about FLOYD's recovery. Finally, I decided that I would make some remarks about FLOYD's valiant struggle. I reserved the time from the Speaker, and as I was preparing my remarks, I asked one of FLOYD's colleagues, the colorful Arthur Ravenel of Charleston: Should I refer to FLOYD as the gentleman from South Carolina? Arthur replied, 'You should say the gentleman from the Land of the Palmetto.' So, I closed my remarks with Arthur's words, and I immediately received a call from FLOYD's office thanking me for my kind remarks. Of course, I gave the oft-quoted Arthur Ravenel the credit for my closing words!

(Trim Line)

"Everyone knew of FLOYD's devotion to our nation's military personnel, but I think it was even deeper than most realized. Many times we would be in a conference and the subject of defense spending and priorities would arise, and some would be in favor of reducing our commitment to America's fighting men and women. FLOYD's arguments in favor of our military would be passionate and eloquent. Inevitably, he would conclude his well thought out arguments with these words, 'We're talking about your country, man!' Indeed he was. FLOYD's life was an example of duty and devotion to family and country."

As friends and colleagues mourned the passing of Rep. FLOYD SPENCE, they repeatedly noted this devotion to family, friends, and, above all, his country and those who served in its armed forces. Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.) remembered his friend thus in a statement to The Officer: "Floyd was a dedicated champion for all of our men and women in uniform. As a retired Naval Reserve Officer, he always recognized the importance of a strong military and worked tirelessly to ensure that the needs of our armed services were addressed. He was a true patriot, a friend to all service members, and he will be greatly missed."

Lt Col Ira A. Edens, USAF (Ret.) and ROA Life Member, a close friend of Representative SPENCE for more than 50 years, remembers attending numerous ROA conventions with the congressman. "Floyd and I shared the mutual belief that the first priority of Congress is the defense of America and preservation of freedom," Colonel Edens said. "We both believe that if we lose our freedom, all else that we hold dear as a nation—our homes, churches, schools, institutions and way of life as free citizens—fall on the ash heap of civilization."

In addition to his patriotism, Representative SPENCE was recognized as a "true Southern gentleman" and a man of "unsurpassed integrity." Colonel Edens also noted in his memo to ROA: "Floyd was a humble public servant, loved and respected by legions of friends and supporters in his home state and across the United States. FLOYD and I believed, as do others, that the first and foremost requirement for public service is moral integrity and high standards of character in all areas of public service. FLOYD set a high standard of moral leadership ... Indeed, Rep. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.) said that "if he has an enemy in Congress, I don't know it ... I've never met a more gracious person at any level."

(Trim Line)

Representative Coble recalled FLOYD SPENCE's graciousness recently when he was invited to appear on a television program in his congressional district. "When I arrived at the station, a gentleman greeted me with the phrase: 'Come on in the house.' Again, my mind flashed to FLOYD SPENCE ... I told him that no matter where FLOYD was, on the House floor or in his personal office, he would greet friends and newcomers alike by saying, 'Come on in the house.' That was the kind of man he was, someone who never met a stranger."

Funeral services were held in the historic First Baptist Church in the congressman's home city of Columbia, S.C. Vice President Dick Cheney, Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld, House Speaker Dennis Hastert (with a House delegation), Secretary of the Navy Gordon England, and Commandant of Marine Corps General James L. Jones were among the dignitaries who joined friends and supporters to honor Rep. FLOYD SPENCE. The Vice President eulogized FLOYD SPENCE during the ceremony: "I am here today on behalf of the president of the United States to honor a man who has served our nation long and well ... He had a deep respect for the military. That respect was returned in kind. He understood the values and virtues of our military, not only as a political leader but as a veteran himself. Life brought more than a few hardships to this good man. He bore them with courage ... President Bush and I will miss his counsel and his steadfast presence in the House of Representatives."

His casket was placed on a caisson drawn by six white horses; a seventh riderless white horse followed the caisson, signifying a fallen comrade. Representative SPENCE's funeral marked one of the few times in the history of South Carolina where a horse-drawn caisson was used in a state funeral.

Rep. FLOYD SPENCE's lasting impression on the Congress and the nation may best be summed in these words of Rep. Stephen E. Buyer (R-Ind.), sent to ROA: "I am deeply saddened by the death of my friend and colleague Congressman

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

FLOYD SPENCE. For eight years, I had the privilege of working alongside FLOYD, and I had the opportunity to witness his steadfast support of our nation's military. We shared the same values and beliefs: duty, honor, courage and commitment to God, country, family and our fellow man. FLOYD was a true Southern gentleman and his honor and integrity were unparalleled. It is a true loss to this nation. Although he will be greatly missed, his spirit and legacy will live on."

"The nation has lost a patriot and a dedicated public servant. Floyd Spence served his nation with distinction as a Naval officer and as a member of Congress for more than 30 years. As a leader on the House Armed Services Committee, he cared deeply about our men and women in uniform and helped secure peace through his commitment to the strength of our armed forces."

Pastor:

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the source of all mercy and the God of all consolation. He comforts us in all our sorrows so that we can comfort others in their sorrows with the consolation we ourselves have received from God.

Congregation:

Thanks be to God.

Pastor:

When we were baptized in Christ Jesus, we were baptized into his death. We were buried therefore with him by Baptism into death, so that as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, we too might live a new life. For if we have been united with him in a death like his, we shall certainly be united with him in a resurrection like his.

The Honorable Richard B. Cheney

Reverend, Deborah, members of the Spence family, I'm here today on behalf of President Bush and the people of the United States of America to honor a man who served our Nation long and well. I am also here as a former colleague of FLOYD SPENCE and as one who for a quarter of a century knew him as a friend.

That is a distinction I share with many. It is recorded that the first time FLOYD ran for his House seat they did a poll here in South Carolina to measure his support. Not only did the poll find signs of public approval, it turned out that 21,000 people counted him as a personal friend. That number has only grown these past 30 years and many are those who feel deeply the loss that came last week.

He called this his second life because of the transplant operation more than a decade ago. And he put the gift of those extra years to good use. It was not in his nature to waste a day or take time for granted, especially where the affairs of the Nation were concerned. In Congress, FLOYD was one of the watchmen over America's security and the well-being of those who defend us.

He was considered an authority of military matters long before 1995 when, after 24 years in Congress, he became the first Republican chairman of the House Committee on Armed Services in more than 40 years. How he must have enjoyed that, but I can attest as can many of his colleagues here today that FLOYD worked tirelessly to preserve the bipartisan, fair, and thorough tradition of the Armed Services Committee. No one has ever assumed that critical position with a greater commitment to the U.S. military, or had a stronger grasp of its responsibility than FLOYD SPENCE. He had a deep respect for the military and that respect was returned in kind. He understood the values and the virtues of our military, not only as a political leader but as a veteran himself. He understood that a prepared military is the work of years and is never complete. He understood the great part our country plays in the world and the great choices always before us. As he said recently, "Either we accept our role as a sole global superpower and provide our military with the necessary resources or we decline this difficult responsibility."

From the very beginning of his career, Congressman SPENCE himself was never known to decline any difficult responsibility. When I first knew him in the mid-1970s, Washington was bitterly divided by Watergate. We needed leaders who kept their eyes on the Nation's interests. We needed solid, serious men who took the long view of things. We needed patriots. That word more than any other describes the gentleman from South Carolina. FLOYD was a bit of an anomaly in Washington. A soft-spoken gentle man who was proudly one of the staunchest hawks in Congress. A man who worked hard for his district, for his State.

(Trim Line)

I loved the quote I saw in one of your local papers from someone who had known FLOYD SPENCE very well. He said "FLOYD SPENCE has done more things for more people and said less about it than any man in American politics."

He was never known to draw away from any personal challenge either. Life brought more than a few hardships to this good man. He bore them with courage, preferring to think and speak of all he had given and all he had hoped to do. I was proud to serve with FLOYD SPENCE. President Bush and I will both miss his counsel and his steadfast presence in the House of Representatives.

It was only about 7 months ago that the President and I met in Austin with FLOYD and his Democratic colleague Norm Sisisky who also passed away this year. We invited them to come down to offer their advice and wisdom to the new incoming team. Norm Sisisky made a comment to the President which he then repeated to the press afterward. He said, "We will give you a lot of advice. We will argue with you. But when it comes out, once you have made a decision, people in the room are going to support you on national defense. That is the legacy that Norm Sisisky and FLOYD SPENCE leave to us—the strong tradition of pulling together rather than tearing apart on matters affecting our Nation's security and our standing in the world. FLOYD SPENCE was a patriot who served his country well. We will miss him.

Dr. Seshadri Raju:

Vice President Cheney, colleagues, friends, and family of FLOYD SPENCE. I first met Congressman FLOYD SPENCE nearly 14 years ago when he was admitted to the University Hospital in Mississippi for a double lung transplantation procedure. Lung transplantation is pretty much routine now, but it was very much experimental at that time and the outcome was not at all certain. I think it took extraordinary courage for him to undergo the procedure at that time in the first place. Life after double lung transplantation is not always easy, and it can be pretty rough at times. I know for a fact that FLOYD went through several such periods of great difficulty in the years after transplantation that would have broken a lesser man, yet he never complained, never indulged in self-pity, and overcame those numerous hurdles that were thrown in his way with quiet determination. His spirit and sheer strength of will were truly amazing. He often said he was thankful for every additional day God granted him on this earth, and I know he meant it and lived it. I think he understood that any such additional time God granted him was meant for a purpose and he did not waste a minute of it.

(Trim Line)

He chaired the House Armed Services Committee during 6 of those years and routinely put in 16- or 17-hour days. It used to make me feel tired just looking at his typical daily itinerary, and I'm quite a bit younger than him.

He traveled all over the world oftentimes to places where there would be no help if something related to his lung transplantation went wrong. His only backup was his wife, Mrs. Debbie Spence, who often traveled with him on these occasions. She studied up on lung transplantation and all the problems related to it. She was deeply devoted to him and watched over him. He used to refer to her only partly in jest as Dr. Debbie. It has been my deep privilege to come to know Mrs. Spence, whose goodness of heart and inner strength matched every bit of that of the Congressman. The 13 years of productive life that the Congressman enjoyed after transplantation was largely due to her loving care and attention. And there were periods of joy during those 13 years. Some weeks after the double lung transplantation, I got a call from the hospital regarding the Congressman. He was still in the hospital, not quite ready to be discharged. I was actually out of town visiting my brother, and the hospital had tracked me down in Houston at my brother's residence. I was afraid that something bad might have happened. No. It was the Congressman himself on the phone from his hospital room. In a very cheerful voice he said, "Doctor, I'm getting married." I said, "congratulations. Have you set the date?" He said, "right now, right here." So FLOYD and Debbie got married in the very hospital room where he was still recovering. The nurse who was taking care of him kept meticulous notes regarding the wedding ceremony. She noted in his chart that the preacher was in the room at 5:00 p.m., and the wedding ceremony was in progress at 5:15 p.m. Her notation at 5:30 p.m. stated that the wedding ceremony was over; and in typical nursing lingo, she commented that the patient tolerated the wedding ceremony well.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

FLOYD often said he was a simple, common man. His politics were certainly straightforward—faith in God, service to country, and devotion to family. Rock solid integrity. He was a power in Washington, yet he was always humble and courteous to all around him. He was very much a true Southern gentleman—always polite, never ostentatious. Yet, his quiet external demeanor hid astonishing willpower and spiritual strength.

To what purpose did he will himself to live the extra 13 years with a double lung and then a kidney transplantation? Partly, the answer must lie in his love for his wonderful family who were at his bedside during his last days and are gathered here today. David donated one of his own kidneys to his father last year, and others were lined up beside him if the tissue match was better.

The other part of his work was in Washington. I was present during the ceremony last year when they honored him on Capitol Hill and hung his portrait for his work as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. It was a proud moment for his family, for him personally, his loyal and super efficient staff, and many, many others from all walks of life whom he had befriended during his many years of service. The room was full; many of his colleagues from both sides of the aisle were present. All of the service chiefs were in attendance, and there were more stars in the room than I am used to seeing on a typical muggy Mississippi night. Secretary Cohen thanked FLOYD for his distinguished service, and then the time came for FLOYD to respond.

Of the many things he had done, he was most proud of the pay increase for the men and women of the military he was able to implement despite considerable opposition. Seeing the glint of fervor in his eye at that moment, I realized that he saw himself, not as a powerful Congressman, not as a mover and shaker in Washington. His self image was that of the Navy ensign who signed up to serve when he was just 17 years old. He understood that our freedoms ultimately rest on the strength of our armed services and that the well-being of the men and women who wear the uniform is fundamental. He saw strengthening of our military as the ultimate form of service to his country and a mission worthy of the additional precious time God gave him on this earth.

He had extreme, almost intolerable pain in the last few months. Yet, he was on the job to the last minute, including punishing overseas trips to Lithuania and Bosnia during that period. Yes, he said he was a common man, but he was a very uncommon man, an extraordinary man. He was tried in his life many times in many ways, and he endured those trials with grace, always full of hope, aiming to serve, thankful for every additional day God gave him to live. As we mourn his passing, we rejoice in his exemplary life, his many accomplishments, his indomitable spirit, and the proud legacy he leaves behind for others to cherish and follow. Borrowing from Mr. John Monk, noted newspaper columnist, "well done, salute, and Godspeed, FLOYD."

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

The Honorable Carroll A. Campbell, Jr.

As I look out across this congregation, I realize that everybody here has been touched by one man. What a tribute. As we travel this road of life and all others too, we will meet in the end one day. But we meet so many people, some are special. FLOYD SPENCE was one of the special people, he was a person that I felt really blessed to have known. He loved his State. He loved his family in which he was so very, very proud. And as we look at this, and we look for champions to lead us, we look no further than FLOYD. When times were bleak, FLOYD was upbeat. FLOYD was the kind of person that loved his family, he loved his fellow man. And I have to tell you he's the kind of person that everybody in this State and in his family was proud of, extremely proud.

I served in Congress for 8 years with FLOYD. One of the things that impressed me the most about him was how much he cared for others. He always put what was in the best interest of the people above the political agenda. Having been in the Congress myself, as others, Mr. Speaker and others, you know it's hard to put other people in front of you. FLOYD SPENCE always stepped back to let someone else do the right thing. He was unique, he was someone we may never see again in a lifetime. He always put the best interests of the people above the political agendas, as I said.

As a freshman Congressman, and I mean very fresh, FLOYD went out of his way to help me with the transition, to teach me the ropes so to speak, and what a teacher he was. This transition gave me the advice on how to get things done on Capitol Hill, things which I will always be grateful for. And one thing I will always remember about FLOYD is just about every night in Washington there is some kind of dinner or reception being hosted by this group, or that group, trying to get your support for some particular thing in the Congress of the United States, and all of you Congressmen know what I am talking about. Well let me just say this to you. Remember this about FLOYD. Every night in Washington where there was some kind of dinner or reception being hosted by this group or that group trying to get your support for their particular cause, he would rarely attend. Why did he rarely attend? He rarely attended because he said he didn't want to be around that much sinning at night. FLOYD loved God, FLOYD loved life, FLOYD loved his fellow man. And even before the medical miracles, FLOYD treated every day of life as the precious gift it is. He never met a stranger. If you met him on the street he would greet you as an old friend with a smile that would light up your day and say, "hey man, how are you?" I can picture FLOYD in heaven at the pearly gates and saying to St. Peter, "hey man, how are you?" And those of you that know it, know what I am talking about. FLOYD SPENCE is in heaven now but he will never be forgotten. I feel that I am a better person for having known him. I will miss him and his friendship and I know that all of you will. God bless you FLOYD, God bless your family.

(Trim Line)

The Honorable Addison (Joe) G. Wilson

Debbie Spence, David, Zack, Ben, Caldwell, grandchildren, Spence family, Mr. Vice President, Mr. Speaker, friends from across South Carolina, Washington and points between and beyond. Congressman FLOYD SPENCE was truly an amazing man. He made history but he always did it without boasting. He set high personal standards but he never judged others harshly. He created records but he always left his imprint quietly and without self-promotion. Like all truly great men, Congressman SPENCE lived a life dedicated not to self but to service. That was his mission on earth.

I count it as one of my life's blessings that Congressman FLOYD SPENCE was my friend. I was able to work closely with the Congressman over a period of many, many years. In fact I was given the honor of being his campaign manager for about half a dozen of his re-election campaigns. I'll never forget the first campaign we waged back in 1970. The legendary pollster, Arthur Finklestein conducted a survey. Arthur decided to ask a question of potential voters. Do you consider FLOYD SPENCE to be your personal friend? The Vice President has already referenced this event but it was so remarkable, it needs to be cherished. The results came back and 7 percent of the electorate said yes, Congressman SPENCE is my personal friend. We ran the math on that number which meant 21,000 people identified Congressman SPENCE as their personal friend. That was 31 years ago, long before he rose to prominence as a national leader. There was something about the man that touched our hearts, inspired our confidence, and made us know that indeed he was our Congressman.

(Trim Line)

The most difficult part of being the campaign manager for Congressman SPENCE was having to deal with the fact that he would simply not brag about himself. He was so humble that we had to drag his achievements out of him. When we would go to festivals, or community drop-ins I would tell him, “now Congressman be sure to tell these people about the legislation you sponsored, tell them how you fought for this and that.” And he would say “those folks don’t want to hear about me, I want to hear about them,” and he would listen. He would cry with them, laugh with them, relate to them and most of all he would help them from beginning to end. For Congressman FLOYD SPENCE, holding office was all about service. That’s why we loved him, that’s why he was elected and re-elected more than any other public official from the South Carolina Midlands in the 20th century. Most often we think of Congressman SPENCE as a Congressman, and he was one of the greatest. But most people don’t realize what a tremendous impact he had on the quality of life back when he was a member of the State house or in the State senate.

Again, he never bragged about those achievements so I am going to brag for him because today the record is so very meaningful for our families. In the General Assembly, he served on a study committee that led to the founding of Midlands Technical College. He was instrumental in the legislation that established the Lexington Medical Center, which now provides world class health care to the people throughout the region. Also he secured major industrial developments for both Lexington and Richland Counties, developments that brought us the jobs and tax base we needed to fund our nationally ranked school systems. Later, in Congress, his record was even more amazing. He fought tirelessly for health care, for education, for free enterprise and for a strong national defense. He saw his vision fulfilled—a victory in the cold war, working with President Reagan and Senator Thurmond for Americans to live in peace, and people from Russia to Bulgaria to live in freedom. His hard work as a Congressman enabled him to rise from a minority back bench role to the chairmanship of the powerful House Armed Services Committee. This is the highest position ever achieved by a resident of the Midlands in modern American history. But as he rose to prominence on the national stage,

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

Congressman SPENCE never lost touch with the folks back home. He was always happiest when he was here listening, laughing, and joking, surrounded by all of us who loved him. And we all loved his sense of humor. We remember how he enjoyed complimenting friends he would run into on our new store bought suit.

He also loved the institution of marriage. Often when he saw me and my wife Roxanne together he would say in a voice just loud enough for others to hear, "boy Joe you sure married over your head," which indeed I did, and so did he. Twice. First to his late wife Lou, and now, his beloved Debbie, who stood by him, loved him, and brought him abundant happiness. In a single word Congressman FLOYD SPENCE was a miracle. The quality of life lived, the well-chronicled donations of life given, and the measure of life given back to others. Three parts to a whole, the sum total of which gives us comfort and reassurance in our own lives. May God bless his family and May God bless all of us as we seek to keep his legacy alive. To preserve for ourselves and future generations the miraculous gift of a life well lived. The wise prophet Isaiah reminds us of God's promise: "Fear not for I have redeemed you. I have called you by your name, you are mine." And so it is. God has redeemed the Congressman. He has called him by his name. He is with God, God bless Him.

The Salutation and Prayer

The Reverend Dr. George E. Meetze
Chaplain of the Senate of South Carolina

Pastor:

The Lord be with you.

Congregation:

And also with you.

Pastor:

Let us pray. O God of grace and glory, we remember before you today our brother, FLOYD. We thank you for giving him to us to know and to love as a companion in our pilgrimage on Earth. In your boundless compassion, console us who mourn. Give us your aid, so we may see in death the gate to eternal life, that we may continue our course on Earth in confidence until, by your call, we are reunited with those who have gone before us; through your Son, Jesus Christ our Lord.

The Creed

Pastor:

God has made us his people through our Baptism into Christ. Living together in trust and hope, we confess our faith.

Congregation:

I believe in God, the Father almighty, creator of heaven and Earth.

I believe in Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord.

He was conceived by the power of the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary.

He suffered under Pontius Pilate was crucified, died, and was buried.

He descended into Hell.

On the third day he rose again.

(Trim Line)
(Trim Line)

He ascended into heaven, and is seated at the right hand of the Father.
He will come again to judge the living and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Spirit,
the Holy Catholic Church,
the Communion of Saints,
the forgiveness of sins,
the resurrection of the body,
and the life everlasting. Amen.

The Prayers

Pastor:

Let us pray.

Almighty God, you have knit your chosen people together in one communion, in the mystical body of your Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. Give to your whole Church in heaven and on Earth your light and your peace.

Congregation:

Hear us, Lord.

Pastor:

Grant that all who have been baptized into Christ's death and resurrection may die to sin and rise to newness of life and that through the grave and gate of death we may pass with him to our joyful resurrection.

Congregation:

Hear us, Lord.

Pastor:

Grant to us who are still in our pilgrimage, and who walk as yet by faith, that your Holy Spirit may lead us in holiness and righteousness all our days.

Congregation:

Hear us, Lord.

Pastor:

Grant to your faithful people pardon and peace, that we may be cleansed from all our sins and serve you with a quiet mind.

Congregation:

Hear us, Lord.

Pastor:

Grant to all who mourn a sure confidence in your loving care, that, casting all their sorrow on you, they may know the consolation of your love.

Congregation:

Hear us, Lord.

Pastor:

Give courage and faith to those who are bereaved, that they may have strength to meet the days ahead in the comfort of a holy and certain hope, and in the joyful expectation of eternal life with those they love.

Congregation:
Hear us, Lord.

Pastor:
Help us, we pray, in the midst of things we cannot understand, to believe and trust in the communion of saints, the forgiveness of sins, and the resurrection to life everlasting.

Congregation:
Hear us, Lord.

Pastor:
Grant us grace to entrust FLOYD to your never-failing love which sustained him in this life. Receive him into the arms of your mercy, and remember him according to the favor you bear for your people.

Congregation:
Hear us, Lord.

The Conclusion of the Intercessions

Pastor:
God, the generations rise and pass away before you. You are the strength of those who labor; you are the rest of the blessed dead. We rejoice in the company of your saints. We remember all who have lived in faith, all who have peacefully died, and especially those most dear to us who rest in you. Give us in time our portion with those who have trusted in you, and have striven to do your holy will. To your name, with the Church on Earth and the Church in heaven, we ascribe all honor and glory, now and forever.

Congregation:
Amen.

The Lord's Prayer

Congregation:
Our Father, who art in heaven,
hallowed be thy name,
thy kingdom come,
thy will be done,
on Earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread;
and forgive us our trespasses,
as we forgive those who trespass against us;
and lead us not into temptation,
but deliver us from evil.
For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Commendation

Pastor:

Into your hands, O merciful Savior, we commend your servant, FLOYD. Acknowledge, we humbly beseech you, a sheep of your own fold, a lamb of your own flock, a sinner of your own redeeming. Receive him into the arms of your mercy, into the blessed rest of everlasting peace, and into the glorious company of the saints in light.

Congregation:

Amen.

Pastor:

Let us go forth in peace.

Congregation:

In the name of Christ. Amen.

Miss Me, But Let Me Go

Fred Gerhardt

*When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me,
I want no rites in a gloom-filled room—
why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little—but not for long and not with your heads bowed low.
Remember the love that we once shared
Miss me—but let me go!
For this is a journey we all must take
and each must go alone;
It's all part of the Master's plan,
a step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick at heart
Turn to friends you know
And bury your sorrows in doing good deeds;
Miss me—but let me go!*
